WAS MAKING ITS TRIAL VOYAGE

Party of Naval Commissioners on Board to Accept Craft for the German Navy

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Early this afternoon twenty-eight men were reported dead, out of twenty-nine, including the crew and an admiralty commission, who were aboard the new Zeppelin L-2, which exploded and burned in mid-air at the Johannisthal field.

The aluminum frame work of the dirigible, which was about all that remained of the ground, was so hot that rescuers at first could not go near it. All of the bodies were horribly mangled.

Troops were dispatched to the station field from all directions to check the crowds that gathered and military ambulances hurried to carry away the bodies.

The L-2 was the latest of the aerial war craft built by the Zeppelin company for the German navy, and was on her trial trip. The admiralty commissioners who were killed in the accident, were aboard to approve the dirigible and take her over for the navy.

Hundreds See Accident

The accident, one of the most spectacular in the history of German aviation, was seen by hundreds of people. The huge craft, measuring 500 feet from end to end, was sailing gracefully 3,000 feet up, when suddenly those below were horrified to see a burst of flame and smoke.

Instantly fire enveloped the great gas bag. It was not until a perceptible lapse of time that the spell-bound watchers heard the terrific detonation and knew that an explosion had caused the fire. The monster balloon plunged earthward like a blazing meteor and the spectators scattered in all directions to save themselves from the deluge of fire that came with her.

This was the sixth of the air craft built by the aged Count Zeppelin, pioneer of German aviation, that has come to grief, but only the last three accidents were attended with loss of life.

The admiralty commission was made up of Captain Behnisch, Lieutenant Commander Greyer, naval officers, Naval Architects Neumann and Pletzker and Naval Engineer Busch. They were all killed instantly.

Lieutenant Commander Freyer was in command of the dirigible. He was formerly an aide de camp to Prince Adalbert, third son of the Kaiser.

NEVER SAW SLIT SKIRT DECLARES ONE BISHOP— FASHIONS ARE SCORED

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—There is at least one man in New York today who never saw a slit skirt. He is Bishop F. S. Spaulding of Utah. In seeking the opinions of eight bishops attending the Protestant Episcopal convention here as to the present dress of women, the modern dances, and other questions, it was discovered that Bishop Spaulding had no criticism to make.

"They do not have slit skirts where I come from," said Bishop Spaulding. "A modest, self-respecting woman should dress in a modest, self-respecting way, however."

Bishop Williams of Michigan declared that "too great laxity obtains in all classes of society."

Bishop Henry St. George Tucker said: "I think the man who finds fault with women's clothes often doesn't know what he is talking about."

Bishop C. H. Brent of the Philippines, said he believed all the extremes adopted are the result of a mad hunt for pleasure, and Bishop W. L. Gravett of West Virginia, strongly disapproved of many women's fashions.

Bishop L. R. Brewer of Montana said: "Some of the customs are vulgar and ridiculous and the last degree."

Bishop Longley of Iowa said: "Women think it is smart to take up exaggerated fashions started by a set of rich persons who call themselves 'society.'"

The extremes in dress and other improprieties are confined to the larger cities, in the opinion of Bishop Peterkin of West Virginia.

ROBERTSON WRITES RIO IMPRESSION

Former City Editor of The Tribune Says People of Brazil Are Lazy but Good Workmen

POLITICS IS GREAT GAME THERE

Play It with Gun in Each Hand and Dirk in Teeth, Says
"Bob"

The following letter from H. B. Robertson, formerly city editor of The Tribune, now a resident of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, is published at this time in the hope that it may prove interesting to the ladies of the Twentieth Century club, who have adopted South America as their topic for the season. Mr. Robertson, who enjoys a wide acquaintance in La Crosse, has an unusual facility for observation, and writes engagingly.

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 17, 1913.

A. M. Brayton,

La Crosse, Wis., U. S. A.

Dear Brayton:

Three weeks on the road, three weeks here, and a month before you will get this letter. I wonder if you will have forgotten your wandering friend. It will be at least another month before I can get your indignant denial. Seven thousand miles or thereabouts in distance and infinitely more in other things separate me from the rumble of The Tribune press and all it stands for and as the days go by I am coming to a fuller realization of the vastness of the change.

I had a wonderful trip and find this a wonderful city. Up to the present I have had no cause to regret my venture and still believe that I shall have no cause for regret. I believe this to be a land of great opportunity for those who seek it as well as a land of great difficulties. Once the difficulties are overcome, there remains but the opportunity.

The difficulties, which of course must be considered first are the differences in language, customs and people. The first two are easily and automatically disposed of but the last often proves insurmountable.

Language a Mixture

The language is a mixture of Portuguese, Spanish and Indian dialects with peculiarities caused by the cosmopolitan character of the people. It is similar to Spanish, however, and easy to learn. Already I am able to read most of the stuff in the newspapers but the spoken lingo is much harder to get the swing of. I find that either a smile or a piece of coin helps the native understand your language wonderfully, especially the latter. I am staying at a "pension" known as the Hotel Tijuca, which is under French management and French is the language spoken there. I have managed to master that language to the extent that when I ask for roast beef, American style, at dinner, I get pork chops fried, English style. And that you must admit, is pretty reasonably close. When I make the motions of drinking and insist on a drink of water the chances are that they will bring me a mug of beer. But I don't complain. They say it takes from six months to a year to get a working knowledge of the Brazilian language so before I get back it is probable that I will be able to speak it.

Customs European

The customs of the people here are of course vastly different from those in the United States. For the most part they have attempted to model their style of living and doing things after Europeans and in some things they have succeeded very well. They know less about the United States than the United States knows about them and I have come to the conclusion that this is very little. They are a people of violent extremes. One sees the bullock cart, that carried goods on the streets of ancient Baby-

- Inch to Get Ship
- NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The unwritten law of the sea that a commander who loses his ship shall never have another command will not be imposed on Captain Inch of the ill-fated Volturno. The heroism displayed by Inch has saved him.
- "The Uranium, and all other steamship lines, need men like Captain Inch," said E. O. Thomas, general manager of the Uranium line today. "He will be given another Uranium boat, to command and we will be glad and proud to keep him in our employ."

nameless, homeless orphans, survivors of the disaster which claimed 136 lives.

When the lifeboats of the Kroonland, the first rescue ship to reach New York with women and children survivors, and Captain Inch and the remnant of his crew, were put alongside the burning Volturno eight days ago these three children were tossed from the deck to the Kroonland's seamen. When a census was taken of those aboard the Red Star liner pulled away from the burning ship it was found that these children had been separated from their parents.

Later wireless messages failed to find the parents and believing they were among the lost, three first class passengers of the Kroonland—Lady Evelyn Bullock, daughter of the governor of Bermuda, Mrs. Florence Kelly, a settlement worker and Mrs. Theodore Spencer, of Haverford, Pa., adopted them. For seven days these children were the "pets" of the passengers. One, a boy about five, with hair cropped short, was named "William the Silent" because he would say nothing. The other two were babies too young to talk.

As soon as the Kroonland docked the children were taken to the Nurse's Settlement by Mrs. Kelly. One of the little ones, a girl, was threatened with pneumonia and is in the settlement hospital today.

The children will be cared for until it is absolutely certain their parents are dead, and then, if dead, they will be adopted by wealthy New York families.

Captain Inch, shrinking from praise, and hugging his dog Jack, which he saved before leaving the ship himself, today will make a detailed report of the accident to the Uranium Steamship company.

Greet Survivors

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 17.—Several hundred relatives and friends of passengers rescued from the Volturno and brought to this port by the liner Seydlitz, got beyond control of the police and immigration officials today when the doors were opened to admit them to the detention pen on the municipal pier. Scenes of the wildest excitement followed. Men and women brushed aside all who tried to halt them and caught the rescued passengers in their arms. Shouts of joy mingled with walls of sorrow as those who failed to find their relatives among the 46 rescued passengers turned away with hope dead.

United States District At-

self as a Candidate

"I am confident that Wisconsin democracy will nominate progressive candidates for state offices in 1914 and if this is done there is no doubt but that Wisconsin will undergo a landslide in favor of the party of Jefferson."

This was the assertion of John A. Aylward, Madison, Wis., United States district attorney for the western district of Wisconsin, in LaCrosse today to prosecute cases for the government in federal court.

Mr. Aylward is the democratic leader who, at a committee meeting during the democratic state convention in Milwaukee last year, read the riot act to Harry W. Bolens, of Port Washington, Wis., self-appointed leader of the stalwart wing of the party and who was active as a lobbyist during the 1912-13 session of the Wisconsin legislature.

Mr. Bolens twice repudiated democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, brought in the results of a post card vote against the income tax. Several citations of the corrupt practices act were cited by Mr. Aylward, all of which were to the discomfort of Mr. Bolens.

Mr. Aylward has been mentioned as a candidate for the governorship and the United States senatorship. This morning he refused to express himself on these subjects further than to say that he had not "seriously" considered himself as a candidate for either.

"I haven't any doubt but that the democrats in Wisconsin can carry the state and I am equally confident that the next election will see nothing but progressives on the ticket," asserted Mr. Aylward.

Mr. Aylward said that among the names he had heard mentioned for the governorship, in his own party, were William F. Wolfe, La Crosse; Senator Paul Husting, of Mayville, and Melville E. Hoyt, publisher of the Milwaukee Daily News.

TAXI SHOOTING MYSTERY

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 17.—Twin City police are today working on a mysterious taxicab shooting that occurred late last night. A gray haired man and two young companions started on a trip to Minneapolis; when midway between the cities the taxi driver heard a shot. The elderly man fled when the auto stopped. One of the younger men was injured and the driver went to call the police. When he returned all of his fares had vanished.

NIGHT BURGLAR TAKES CLOTHES

Offices of Joseph W. Skinner Co. Entered by Man Who Equips Himself
with Suit and Brush

A robber, who evidently cares more for his personal appearance than his purse, last night entered the offices of the Joseph W. Skinner company, 124-126 North Third street, and equipped himself with a pair of shoes and suit belonging to Joseph Skinner, head of the concern. With the suit the "gentleman robber" took a clothes brush.

The robbery was discovered this morning by Mr. Skinner, who found nothing else missing.

The police were notified and it was discovered that the entrance was made through a window just above the roof of the Adams Express company. The robber had evidently reached the express company roof via a telephone pole and then prised loose the window into the chemical company.

A neat, part of the stolen suit, was seized by the robber.

"If you catch him," Mr. Skinner advised the police today, "give him the vest."

Demands Same Terms
Given to Western Wisconsin Co.

A hearing was given by the Wisconsin Railroad commission Thursday on the complaint of the Etrick Farmers' Telephone company of Etrick, Trempealeau county, against the tolls charged by the La Crosse Telephone company and the Western Wisconsin Telephone company for exchange of messages. The Western Wisconsin and the La Crosse companies connect without charging rates. The former gives its messages to the La Crosse company at Galesville. The Etrick company does the same, but is charged with 75 per cent of the toll originating on the Etrick company's lines. All the tolls that originate on the Western Wisconsin's lines are kept by that company, it was set forth. The Etrick company asked that the 75 per cent charge be omitted or else be imposed also on the Western Wisconsin company. The La Crosse company charges the Etrick company 15 cents toll on messages from Galesville to La Crosse, but does not charge it to the Western Wisconsin company. This alleged discrimination also was aired at the hearing.

The appearances were: John Nordgaard, president of the Etrick company; W. F. Goodrich, general manager of the La Crosse company, and J. C. Gaveney, president of the Western Wisconsin company.

Camp

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Tacit recognition of the constitutionalists loomed up today as a possible solution of the administration's Mexican troubles. Officials have abandoned hope of a satisfactory solution under Huerta's regime.

Insistent reports reached here today that General Carranza, leader of the constitutionalists, is bargaining with Huerta to bring about peace by establishing Pedro Lascurain temporarily in the provisional presidency, restoring congress and holding elections.

Huerta Officers Resign

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 17.—A feeling of vague unrest was apparent among the foreigners here today, because of the continued resignation of officials under General Huerta.

Spanish Minister Bernardo Cologan, dean of the diplomatic corps, French Minister Paul Le Faivre, and Rear Admiral Baron Von Delintze, the German minister, admitted that the diplomats have held many conferences on the situation, but denied that their protests to Huerta were formal, or that they had demanded that their governments send ships into Mexican waters.

The government departments are giving out no information and the people of Mexico are wholly ignorant of the international situation. The natives show little interest in the coming congressional election.

Two Americans Killed

Thomas Barrett, a mine manager and William Kendall, one of his employees, both Americans, were slain by Mexicans at Hostotipaquillo, a mining camp in the state of Jalisco, on the southwest coast, according to dispatches received here today, and twenty-five other foreigners, threatened by a Mexican mob, escaped massacre when a squad of rurales guarded their departure to Guadalajara aboard a train.

Barrett was slain by a Mexican who attacked him with an axe. The murderer was captured and turned over to the rural guards. Enroute to Magdalena, the prisoner attempted to escape and was shot down.

Word reached the mining camp that Kendall shot the prisoner and a mob of Mexicans attacked the mining camp and killed Kendall. Besieged by the mob, other foreigners barricaded themselves in a mine and telephoned to Magdalena for troops.

HAVANNA, Oct. 17.—A Mexican gunboat is on her way here today to meet General Felix Diaz and convey him to Vera Cruz tomorrow. The Mexican revolutionary junta has posted hundreds of red dodgers throughout the city urging workmen to demonstrate against the conspirators of "Dictator Huerta."

BLAMES IT ON TAMMANY FIGHT

But Misconduct Is Consid-

BY JOHN EDWIN NEVIN
(Staff Correspondent of the United Press.)

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Martin H. Glynn, governor, vice William Sulzer, impeached and removed.

That is the way the records of the state of New York now read. Today the high court of impeachment, by a vote of 43 guilty to 12 not guilty, formally removed from office the elected chief executive. Convicted on three of the eight counts for "high crimes and misdemeanors" charged against him by the Tammany assembly, the court confined its verdict to ousting him from the position.

Guilty on Three Counts

Sulzer was found guilty on articles one, two and four of the impeachment in the vote last night.

Though disgraced by this verdict which he declared was due to his refusal to bow to the will of Tammany hall, Sulzer has a chance of rehabilitation. He is not forever disqualified from office holding. To use his own language, they gave him the chance to institute a personally conducted recall election. This Sulzer declares he will do. He declares that he will get his side of the case before the people. He insisted today to his friends that he "had just begun to fight" and would be a candidate for the nomination for governor one year from now.

Only Tammany Will

Sulzer insisted that privately he would not accept the verdict of disqualification as meaning anything other than the will of Tammany hall and the votes that it controlled in the senate and the court of appeals. It is said that he will plan his rehabilitation along the lines of a concerted fight to kill Tammany as a political factor in the state.

Sulzer has publicly claimed time and again that had he been willing to agree to appoint Tammany men to office, he would not have been hampered in his work as governor. He has alleged that his first real break with Charles F. Murphy came because he refused to appoint the latter's friend and business associate, James Gaffney, to office under the administration. But, while it may be true that Sulzer would never have been impeached had he bowed to Tammany's will, no one who has analyzed the result of the trial and the vote as recorded, can believe that Sulzer was made a martyr. The proofs of his guilt were clear and decisive. Even his own counsel admitted this fact but in their arguments they attacked the legality of the impeachment proceedings. Their fight was all along technical lines and they did not make any real attempt to overthrow the evidence of the prosecution.

Notify Governor

Following a conference between Chief Judge Cullen and Clerk of the Impeachment Court Patrick E. McCabe, it was decided that Governor Sulzer should be formally notified of his removal from office before the actual adjournment of the court. McCabe was instructed by Cullen to prepare a copy of the judgment of ouster which was in effect a dispossession notice and after having it countersigned by the chief judge and the clerk, to send it by the sergeant at arms of the senate to be personally served on the ousted official.

The governor and his friends say the verdict against him is illegal. They believe they will find a way of getting the action before the supreme court of the United States for review. The members of the court including the supreme court of appeals, say there is no way possible to obtain a review.

THIS IS THE DAY FOR PANAMA BOOKS

Certificates Mature Today and the Volumes Will Be Given Out to All Clippers

This is the day the Panama certificates mature, and readers who present six of them and the small expense fee will be entitled to a copy of "Panama and the Canal in Picture and Prose," as previously announced in these columns.

Considering the large number of inquiries already received from those interested it is believed that there will be a great demand for these books, and readers are urged to present their certificates as early as possible. The present supply of books is thought to be sufficient to fill all demands under normal conditions, but the offer is so unusual and the books are so attractive that some readers may be disappointed if they do not present their certificates at once.

Everybody that sees this wonderful book wants it. It is difficult to describe such a volume in cold type, and utterly impossible to portray its beauties in any kind of an illustration, for its wealth of harmonious colorings cannot be reproduced. Its contents are unique in that they comprise a series of interesting stories about the Canal, the country, the people—where they live, what they eat, how they employ their time in pleasure and work—and all of these pleasing little stories are made up into one complete story which is of intense interest to all.

The Tribune is cognizant of the educational benefits to be derived from this volume, which gives the complete history of the great Canal, setting forth its purpose and promise, and for the benefit of readers, as heretofore announced, it has arranged for a great distribution, which begins today. Hereafter, until further notice, a Panama certificate will be printed daily. Six of these certificates have already appeared in these columns and these will be exchanged for books when accompanied by the expense amount named therein.

Clip the certificates and present them any day until further notice.

A Homeopathic Loss

The little daughter of a homeopathic physician received a ring with a pearl in it on the Christmas tree. Two days later she poked her head tearfully in at the door of her father's office.

"Papa," she sobbed, "Papa, I've lost the little pill out of my ring."

SOCIAL WORKERS DISTURB PRISONS

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 17.—Misrepresentation of prison life by many so-called social workers who have not come in contact with prison work was declared by Ralph E. Smith, president of the Wisconsin state board of control, to be one of the primary causes for the unrest in prisons today. Mr. Smith made this statement in an address on "Wisconsin Penal Legislation," before the American prison congress, which is attended by representatives from every state in the union.

In prefacing his remarks Mr. Smith said that in spite of the advancement in prison reforms in the corresponding length of time have there been more serious outbreaks and revolts in prisons. He claims that this unrest is caused by wardens and boards failing to keep faith with the life as the prevailing conditions.

For Bright Eyes and Clear Nose

Remarkable Catarrh Cure That Gets Right into the Affected Parts and Stops Gatherings.

S. S. S. is a Wonder for the Eyes, Nose and Throat.

It is definitely known that catarrh can be cured by the simple process of inoculating the blood with antitoxin remedies that stop inflammatory conditions throughout the mucous linings of all the organs of the body. This is done with the famous S. S. S. or as it is widely known, S. S. S. It is taken into the blood just as naturally as the most nourishing food. It spreads its influence over every organ in the body, through all the veins and arteries, and enables all mucous surfaces to exchange inflammatory elements that irritate and cause catarrh. S. S. S. cleans out the stomach of mucous accumulations, enables only pure, blood-making materials to enter the intestines, combines with these food elements to enter the circulation, and in less than an hour is at work throughout the body in the process of purification.

You will soon realize its wonderful influence by the absence of headache and steadily improved nasal condition. For special advice on any blood disease write to the Swift Specific Co., 223 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Do not delay to get a bottle of S. S. S. from your druggist. Always insist that you want S. S. S. and nothing else. Beware of all attempts to sell you a substitute.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH MAY SCORE TRIAL

Resolution Condemning the Beilis Trial in Russia to Be Urged on Bishops

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A resolution condemning the "ritual murder" trial of Mandel Beilis, the Jew, in Kieff, Russia, will be urged before the house of bishops in the Protestant Episcopal convention here this afternoon. The house of deputies has already unanimously approved it.

The Rev. John Howard Melish, rector of Holy Trinity church, Brooklyn, told the United Press correspondent today that he would personally bring the matter to the attention of leading bishops, believing firmly, he said, that they would pass it unanimously. As soon as action is taken he will cable the resolution to the metropolitan of the holy orthodox eastern church of Russia, and telegraph it to the Russian ambassador at Washington.

"We call upon the archbishops, bishops and other bodies of the holy orthodox eastern church of Russia, the resolution reads, 'to make formal pronouncement that charges of co-called ritualistic murders are without foundation or justification in the teachings and practice of the religion of Israel. And remind them that in the early days of Christianity, similar charges were made by ignorance and superstition against our own most holy religion.'"

Before the two houses met in joint session today the house of deputies held a business meeting considering the report of the committee on the "duty of the church to the foreign born," and unanimously adopted a resolution selecting St. Louis as the meeting place for the general convention in 1916.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Gentle Francis And the Scared Baby Hare.

THE children had been talking about Frankie Green's pet rabbits. "And we wish you would get us some rabbits, daddy," Jack and Evelyn begged. "Rabbits? Would you be kind to them?" daddy inquired. "Course we would," was the answer. "Long ago," said daddy, "in the old town of Assisi, which nestles prettily among the hills of Italy, there lived a boy by the name of Francis. His father was quite well off, and the boy had everything that a boy of that time cared for.

"But better than any of the handsome toys which were given to him Francis loved the living creatures that he saw about him. The bees that hummed in the orchards, the birds that sang in the branches of the trees, the cattle that grazed in the fields, the great prancing horses on which the soldiers rode, the patient donkeys drawing their heavy loads through the steep, narrow streets, all interested the little boy.

"There was one thing that made him different from his many companions. It was his tender heart. He could not bear to see any living thing suffering. When still a boy his parents often had to talk to him about his habit of giving away whatever he had to any one who seemed to need it.

"When he grew to be a man Francis became a preacher, but he had ideas of his own about the way preachers should live. He thought they should be poor, as the Christ had been when he went about preaching and teaching.

"Francis was much loved by every one. So good and kind was he that people believed even the wild beasts would not harm him.

"One morning as the good man sat at his scanty breakfast some one brought in to him a little baby hare (which is a kind of a rabbit) and gave it to him.

"Francis took the tiny, trembling creature into his arms and petted it and spoke so softly and soothingly that at last it ceased to be afraid and nestled against his coarse robe, looking trustfully up at him.

"Then he put it down and told the hare it was free and might go back to its friends. But the hare hopped back—it did not wish to leave him.

"Then he took it up again and, giving it to one of his companions, told him to take it out into the woods and set it free, where it could join its own kind.

"And this was done as he ordered, and the little hare leaped off, perhaps, to tell its brother and sister hares of its wonderful escape and of the gentle man whose gentle deeds made him worthy to be called one of the finest gentlemen who have ever lived."

were constantly consulted. Their appreciation of the amenities of this festival occasion contributed largely to its value in cementing the friendship between the city and country and paving the way for a larger co-operation.

MAKE THE BRIDGE FREE EVERY THURSDAY

Farmers' Day was a splendid object lesson with direct application to the question of a free bridge.

We wish every alderman in La Crosse could have stood by the wagon bridge from 7 o'clock yesterday morning until the last team had passed, and watched the parade of farmers' wagons into La Crosse.

During the day Secretary Taggart made diligent inquiry among the farmers as to what percentage of them were regular visitors to La Crosse. He found that forty per cent of those present come to this city on- ly occasionally, trading in the small- er towns for the most part, and one farmer from the ridge north of La Crescent declared that there were fully fifteen farm wagons here whose owners trade regularly in Winona, and many of whom had not been in La Crosse in a number of years.

We shall not rehash the many, to us, invincible arguments for a free bridge, but shall content ourselves with a single suggestion.

During the free bridge debate many who had no faith in it declared that farmers cared nothing for the tolls, and that to make the bridge free would be to deprive the city of revenue without any compensating return. They admitted, to a man, that if making the bridge free would add materially to the patronage from Minnesota, the act would be justified; they felt that there would be no material acquisition of trade.

This is our suggestion: Make the Bridge Free on Thursdays for the Ensuing Year.

Check the teams crossing each Thursday, and the results will be a definite answer, one way or the other, to the question of whether it would pay to make the bridge free for all time.

We believe the aldermen are honest in their conflicting opinions on this subject, that to a man they want to do what is best for the city. We believe this idea will strike every alderman who wants to know the facts, as a fair and not expensive test.

"The better the day, the better the deed." Why not thresh this out in- formally at the city officials' picnic Sunday?

Senator Tillman's cow cartoon has gone into the Congressional Record, but an unenterprising editor has ruled out the Mutt and Jeff pictures.

The Volturro tragedy convinces a great many people that it is better to remain on dry land and get smashed up on the railroads.

This idea of putting death's head stoppers on poison bottles will never do, as it would interfere with the patent medicine business.

TO TOUR RESERVES
MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—The forestry committee will meet at Minocqua next Tuesday to start on a three weeks tour of the forestry re- serves. At the conclusion of the re- serves, it is probable that the commit- tee may go to Washington to attend the annual meeting of the National Conservation congress, which will have a progress devoted entirely to the forestry subject this year.

The Horrid Butcher
It was a busy day in the butcher shop. The butcher yelled to the boy who helped him out in the shop: "Hurry up, John, and don't forget to cut off Mrs. Humphrey's leg and break Mrs. Jones' bones, and don't forget to slice Mrs. Johnson's tongue."

Two Would Do
"I'm a terror, I be," announced the new arrival in Frozen Dog to one of the men behind the bar. "Be ye?" "Takes three men to handle me, once I get started," he went on. "Oh, well," he remarked as he arose painfully and dusted off his clothes, "of course, if ye're short handed I suppose two kin do it in a pinch."

THE MERCHANTS DID THEMSELVES PROUD
The merchants of La Crosse are to be complimented upon the nicety with which they interpreted the spirit of Farmers' Day. Everywhere in the stores there was ready service for all who had purchases to make, but the paramount idea was cour- teous. The visitors were treated as guests, the stores were made show places as well as marts, and the comfort and convenience of callers

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Time for 'Em Now
A canvas barn, a painted tree, A slow New England drawl; A large square room with two or three Worked mottoes on the wall; A hint of wicked city life By someone in the cast, Who plays an honest farmer's wife With something of a past. A man from town whose shirt is clean And has at least two suits, To brighten up the rural scene Of overalls and boots. A cow, if one can be secured, A soft nosed mare named Bess; A dog or two and you're assured Unqualified success. Just take these few ingredients And mix them as you may, And keep them free from common sense, You'll have a rural play.

Most of Them
"I understand," said a visitor to the prison, "that some of your convicts are literary characters." "Yes," said the warden. "In fact, the majority of them are engaged on work at the 'pen.'"—Baltimore American.

The Defender
John Purroy Mitchell of New York was talking about a new defense of Tammany. "It is a ridiculously naive defense," he said. "It reminds me of Paint Rock."

A visitor to the retired village of Paint Rock remarked to a native: "Mr. Scribbler was charmed with Paint Rock. In his book he calls it the quaintest, sleepest town." "But here the native, biting viciously into a plug of chewing tobacco growled:

"Wall, Paint Rock may be quaint, all right, all right; but I don't see nothin' sleepy about a place whar everybody's up at 4 o'clock in the mornin', rain or shine."

Trying the Dog
Quite recently an old friend of the Browns went to see them at their new country home. As he approached the house a large dog ran out to the gate and began barking at him through the fence.

As he hesitated about opening the gate, Brown's wife came to the door and exclaimed: "How do you do! Come right in. Don't mind the dog."

"But won't he bite?" exclaimed the friend, not anxious to meet the canine without some assurance of his personal safety.

"That's just what I want to find out," exclaimed Mrs. Brown. "I just bought him this morning."

Her Mother's Childhood
Little Alice came in the house at luncheon time with a pair of very dirty hands. Her mother looked at the little girl's hands and said: "You never saw my hands as dirty as yours."

"No, mother," replied the child, "but grandmother did," and the mother had nothing more to say as she helped the youngster to a greater state of cleanliness.—Harper's Magazine.

The Logical Conclusion
A little girl was walking along the street with her mother when she saw a one-armed man. It was the first time in her life that she had seen a man without an arm, and she wanted to know all about it. Her mother explained, in answer to her questions, that the man had probably met with an accident of some kind and that his arm would never grow back. The little girl thought for a moment, and then said, "Well, if the Lord made us, it seems to like He ought to keep us in repair."—Judge.

IN The WORLD OF WOMEN

Mrs. Edith W. Pierce, Philadelphia's first woman highway inspector, estimates that 225,000 newspapers are daily cast upon the streets of the city. She has adopted the plan of holding little street corner meetings in the congested sections of the city, where she talks to the women and children, urging them to help keep the highways clean. Mrs. Pierce is advocating the installation of an incinerating plant by the city similar to those used in Berlin, which disposes of all waste matter at one time, saving the cost of collection. From the ashes, she declares, blocks can be made for paving the city streets, while sufficient power can be generated for lighting the municipality.

The late Associate Justice Brown, of the United States Supreme Court, who was a strong opponent of woman suffrage, under his will left $1,000 to Grace Goodwin, the well-known "anti." The clause conveying the money explained that the sum was bequeathed "not only as a token of esteem, but of my appreciation of her services in upholding the dignity of womankind and defending the historic position of her sex in our scheme of government."

Francois was ill and weak and it was the first word for five years from his own people, which lay in his hand; he sat as if turned to stone, touching the paper as if that

So Francois, not hopeful of a sortie by that point, drew in his head from the open window and too to examining the walls of the governor's room. There were three doors—one from the hall by which he had come, one behind which he now heard the count moving in his bedroom, and a third. The count had gone through this last door one night a month before, into a dark, winding, stone staircase, and disappeared for three minutes, and then brought up a bottle of wonderful wine.

"A fine stock they put down there—the Italians who ruled here for eight hundred-odd years," he had said. "I've lowered it a bit. A good, gracious winecellar and grand old wine. You will be the better for a little." And Francois had watched him as he put the brass key back on the chain which hung from his belt.

At this point of memory the bedroom door opened, and the governor came out, in great humor and ready to eat and drink as became an Austrian soldier. The dinner was brought in, but Francois, for all his efforts to do his part, could not swallow food, or very little. The fever, the unrest burning in him, made it impossible. Count Gersdorf looked at him seriously when dinner was over; as yet Francois, talking, laughing, singing, had eaten not over half a dozen mouthfuls.

"Certainly you are not well," he said. "I think the doctor should see you." And then he nodded his head and his small eyes gleamed with a brilliant thought. "I know a medicine better than a doctor's." He stood up and his fingers were working at the chain of keys at his belt. Francois watched them and saw the thin, old, brass key which he slipped off. "A bottle of wine of our Italian ancestors—yours and mine, Beaupre"—the count chuckled—"that will cure you of your ills for this evening at least." He slid the key into the lock and said, half to himself, "My little brass friend leaves the belt of Albrecht von Gersdorf except to do him a pleasure, bless him!" And then, "Hold the candle, Beaupre—well, come along down—it can do no harm and I can't manage a light and two bottles."

So Francois followed down the twisted, headlong, stone staircase and found himself, after rather a long descent, holding the lamp, the high, gazing, curiously about the walls of a large stone room lined with shelves, filled with bottles.

"A show, isn't it?" the Count von Gersdorf demanded. "Here, hold the light on this side," and he went on talking. "The wine is so old that I think it must have been stocked before the time of the last lord of the castle."

So Francois, not hopeful of a sortie by that point, drew in his head from the open window and too to examining the walls of the governor's room. There were three doors—one from the hall by which he had come, one behind which he now heard the count moving in his bedroom, and a third. The count had gone through this last door one night a month before, into a dark, winding, stone staircase, and disappeared for three minutes, and then brought up a bottle of wonderful wine.

"A fine stock they put down there—the Italians who ruled here for eight hundred-odd years," he had said. "I've lowered it a bit. A good, gracious winecellar and grand old wine. You will be the better for a little." And Francois had watched him as he put the brass key back on the chain which hung from his belt.

At this point of memory the bedroom door opened, and the governor came out, in great humor and ready to eat and drink as became an Austrian soldier. The dinner was brought in, but Francois, for all his efforts to do his part, could not swallow food, or very little. The fever, the unrest burning in him, made it impossible. Count Gersdorf looked at him seriously when dinner was over; as yet Francois, talking, laughing, singing, had eaten not over half a dozen mouthfuls.

"Certainly you are not well," he said. "I think the doctor should see you." And then he nodded his head and his small eyes gleamed with a brilliant thought. "I know a medicine better than a doctor's." He stood up and his fingers were working at the chain of keys at his belt. Francois watched them and saw the thin, old, brass key which he slipped off. "A bottle of wine of our Italian ancestors—yours and mine, Beaupre"—the count chuckled—"that will cure you of your ills for this evening at least." He slid the key into the lock and said, half to himself, "My little brass friend leaves the belt of Albrecht von Gersdorf except to do him a pleasure, bless him!" And then, "Hold the candle, Beaupre—well, come along down—it can do no harm and I can't manage a light and two bottles."

So Francois followed down the twisted, headlong, stone staircase and found himself, after rather a long descent, holding the lamp, the high, gazing, curiously about the walls of a large stone room lined with shelves, filled with bottles.

"A show, isn't it?" the Count von Gersdorf demanded. "Here, hold the light on this side," and he went on talking. "The wine is

On account of lack of freight handlers, the local officials of the Milwaukee railroad are importing about one hundred Italian section men to assist in unloading freight from merchandise cars here. The Most Graceful Act.
A good subject for a dull season discussion, says the Manchester Guardian, would be what was the most graceful act you ever saw. As a contribution to such a discussion this would, I think, be hard to beat. A lady of much charm who is a rigid vegetarian had been living some time in a Somerset village. When she was leaving the village she received some little gifts from the villagers. The most beautiful was a fine bunch of roses sent to her by—the local butcher.

ARREST CONDUCTOR FOR TRAMP’S DEATH

Hold Harry French at Lancaster Alleging He Threw Hobo Off Train

BRIDGE WORKERS TELL SHERIFF

Declare They Saw Man Push Murphy from Top of Moving Car at Glen Haven

Harry French, 1525 Kane street, Burlington freight conductor, is being held in jail at Lancaster, charged with having caused the death of Tom Murphy, a tramp, Wednesday morning. Murphy is alleged to have been kicked in the head, his fingers stepped on and to have been thrown from the top of a train, when he refused to get off. French will be given a hearing next Thursday in Cassville.

French left La Crosse in charge of freight train No. 8. According to him, when interviewed by a reporter this morning, he knew nothing of the man. He says he and two brakemen on the train were in the caboose the entire distance between Cassville and Glen Haven, where Murphy fell off the train.

A gang of bridge workers, according to a story they told the sheriff at Lancaster, saw a man, riding the top of No. 8, fall off when pushed and kicked by another man.

When Murphy fell the bridge men picked him up. He was not dead, but unconscious. The only injury sustained that was visible was a broken arm. Slight scars were noticed about the top of the head. According to French’s crew, these could have been received in the fall from the top of the train.

Murphy was identified by two men in Cassville who knew him. He has relatives in Cedar Rapids, Ia., and has worked the majority of the summer on the river in government work. He was also a former employee of the Northwestern railroad as brakeman.

DIES IN RESCUE

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 17.—When Mrs. M. B. Aldrich, 26, was awakened by fire in her home this morning she rushed to rescue her sister, Miss Vera Hutson, 18, and firemen coming to fight the fire found both dead, overcome by smoke and badly burned. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Peculiar Indians in Peru.

Behind the black Cordilleras, so called because they are barren and have been without rain since 1898, lies a plateau with an elevation ranging from 12,000 to 16,000 feet. Inhabited by the most peculiar tribe of Indians in Peru. A returned traveler says their chests are distended, because of the altitude, and claims that they cannot live in the lower altitudes. They are stolid, but good workers; harmless, but given to drink. They do not speak Spanish, having preserved their ancient tribal language.

Coming to Herself.

On one occasion Dr. Francis Warner of the London hospital was trying to bring back to complete consciousness a woman who had had a paralytic stroke. His efforts seemed likely to be in vain. For a long time her utterances were only the ravings of delirium. But all at once she sat up in bed and, looking straight at Dr. Warner, she cried out, “Oh, you funny old man!”
“Ah,” said Dr. Warner cheerfully. “Now she’s beginning to talk sense!”—London Tit-Bits.

Canary Seed.

It takes but a trifling amount of seed to fill the cup in a canary bird’s cage, but a canary would probably consume or waste in the course of a year ten pounds of seed, so that the amount required for all the birds in the country is enormous. The value of all the bird seed imported in a year is from $350,000 to $400,000. It would probably be putting it very moderately to say that the bird lovers of our country pay out for bird seed as they buy it. In retail form, more than $1,000,000 annually.

URGES FEDERAL FIRE PREVENTION

Ekern Would Have State and U. S. Bureaus Co-operate in the Work

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 17.—(Special).—A new system of uniform legislation to be adopted by the several states creating fire prevention bureaus that will co-operate with a federal department was advocated here today by Insurance Commissioner Herman L. Ekern of Wisconsin, in a speech on “Fire Prevention Legislation.” He said that these bureaus of the states working with the federal bureau would be able to ascertain the causes of fires and determine the best method of preventing them. He thought the state board should have authority to inspect all property in the state periodically in co-operation with the local fire departments.

“Such legislation will lead to an immediate reduction of fire losses,” declared Mr. Ekern. “The advantage of this method of dealing with the problem is that it provides a continuous education to property owners and to the entire community which necessarily will be reflected in a growing demand for the prevention of fires, and for improved construction as a means of such prevention. Building codes and city planning involve many other considerations than the prevention of fires, and it necessarily follows that progress along these lines can best be made through some deliberate action and direction from a permanent agency which can co-operate with boards of health and other state agencies equally interested in these problems.”

“Such inspections will arouse the individual owner to a sense of his right to be protected against the menace of a bad neighboring risk or conditions which may result in conflagration. As public sentiment develops and the need is felt, it will be easy to provide and enforce any necessary regulations, imposing legal liability upon the adjoining owner for the spread of fire, or subjecting the owner of a premises to an inquest, to the reimbursement of the fire department expense, or even to the payment of a penalty.”

Mr. Ekern urged co-operative action between the states and cities and said if these agencies were aided by a federal bureau the movement would become nation wide in its results. He advocated the passage of legislation for adequate building codes and a systematic and scientific method of city planning.

A Dutch meal is always reminiscent of a game of cards, for the mother deals out all round the table, and when that first hand is played out she deals afresh, and so on until the dish is empty. There is no promiscuous serving, as with us, and the quick feeder (if such a person could exist in leisurely Holland) reaps no advantage. It means are to be likened to games of cards, our meals in Dutch eyes must look like games of “grab.”—London Queen.

Worse Than She Suspected.

“You ought to make allowances, Mrs. Woosely, for the eccentricities of genius. If your husband were an ordinary man he would have a placid disposition and be easy to get along with.”
“Do you think my husband is a genius?”

“Certainly. Everybody recognizes him as one.”
“Dear me! Here I’ve been hoping all this time that it might merely be indigestion or something he could overcome by dieting.”—Chicago Record-Herald.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys, then the Back Hurts

Most folks forget that the kidneys like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

NO HEADLINERS
ON THE NEW BILL

All Five Acts Are of Equal Merit and to Pick a Feature Is Impossible

To select one act that would be distinct from the others in the five act vaudeville bill opening yesterday at the Majestic theater for the second half of the week would be hard. Acrobatics, music, comedy and drama take share and share alike.

A more vivacious couple than Harry and Anna May Seymour has not been seen during the season at the Majestic. Mr. Seymour puts on a unique dance while Miss Seymour gives a clever imitation of Anna Held, wearing a handsome gown and depicting the famous actress in her “I wonder What’s the Matter With My Eyes” song.

Marcou, a shadowgraph man, entertains for a few minutes with an act that is old but a new one as he presents it. On a tiny screen he holds attention, shadowing with his bare hands all sorts of little animals and antics.

“As We Forgive, or Cap’n Dan Casey’s Case,” presented by Richard Carroll and company, is a short sketch, including humor and pathos, and involving a well laid plot. The scene is in police “headquarters” in New York city. Captain Casey has a young woman charged with the theft of a string of diamonds from a wealthy home. The mistress of the home insists on the prosecution of the younger woman. The young woman pleads that she has been an outcast all her life. Captain Casey intercedes for her against the will of the wealthy woman. A tangle that conduces to deep thought follows.

Miss Marie Fitzgibbons spends a few moments really earning her money with a series of incidents of street life, short stories, character sketches and jokes. A laugh starts when she tells her first one, and continues until the curtain falls.

De Varo and Seemater have a young gold mine in their acrobatic act. They do a stunt with triple bars in which they receive an abundance of well earned applause.

Preparing Themselves.

“Petton seems to be rather unpopular with his fellow clerks.”

“Yes. There’s nobody here who likes him.”

“What’s the trouble?”

“Oh, he always manages to be the first one here in the morning, and he always sticks around and keeps working until they get ready to lock the doors at night.”

“I see. The rest of you are practicing so you will be able to cordially hate him when he gets to be your boss.”—Chicago Record-Herald.

And There You Have It.

“Supposing,” said Mr. Meekton, “that you were a voter.”

“Well?” rejoined his wife.

“And suppose I were a candidate.”

“You want to know whether I would vote for you?”

“That was the question I had in mind.”

“Yes, Leonidas, I would vote for you. But if I caught any other women voting for you I should consider their action very forward and impudent.”—St. Paul Dispatch.

FRUIT LAXATIVE IF CONSTIPATED, TAKE “CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS”

Best liver and bowel regulator for mamma, daddy and children.

If you’re headachy, constipated, bilious or stomach is disordered and you want to enjoy the nicest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced, take a tablespoonful of “California Syrup of Figs” tonight and in the morning all the constipation, poison, bile and clogged up waste will gently move out of the system without griping and you will feel splendid.

Every member of the family should use this fruit laxative as occasion demands. It is just as effective for grandpa as it is for baby.

It simply can not injure. Even cross, sick, feverish children just love its pleasant taste and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to effect a good “inside cleansing.”

For thirty years “California Syrup of Figs” has been recommended by physicians as the ideal stomach, liver and bowel cleanser. Millions of families who are well informed use nothing else, but recently there has come a flood of spurious fig syrups, so we warn the public to ask plainly at drug stores for a 50 cent bottle of “California Syrup of Figs” and see that it is prepared by “California Fig Syrup Company.” We make no cheaper size. Hand back any “counterfeit” with contempt.

JAPANESE SALE

A sale of Japanese art goods will be held by the Young Women's Christian association, at the parlors of the association building, corner Fourth and Cass streets. The sale will open Saturday noon and continue for an indefinite period. The articles to be placed on sale include calendars, prints, book marks, card cases, pincushions, stationery, handkerchiefs, etc., and are of genuine Japanese manufacture. As there are but fifty-seven shopping days left until Christmas, it is urged that the ladies of La Crosse do at least a part of their holiday buying now, thus avoiding the usual holiday season rush. Refreshments will be served at the opening of the sale tomorrow afternoon.

GOES TO CONVENTION

Miss Amanda E. Clement, physical director of the Y. W. C. A., left for Chicago last night to attend a three ers of the central field. This is the first conference in this field and secretaries and members from all over the district, which comprises the

the National Board of Young Women's Christian associations. Miss Clement will return Monday.

SILVER WEDDING

The following item, taken from a recent Rockford, Ill., paper, giving an account of the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Derwent of that city, will be read with interest by La Crosse friends. Mrs. Emma Wilder Derwent and her sister, Mrs. Morris of Minneapolis were teachers in the public schools of this city, and were for a number of years residents of the city, living on South Eighth street. The cottage, though small, was always open to their host of friends.

"Mr. and Mrs. Luther Derwent entertained a number of their friends
Friday evening at their home in Sheridan Place in celebration of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.
Among the guests were the bridesmaid and best man, as well as several other friends who were present at the wedding. The same menu served at wedding dinner was prepared at the silver anniversary. Mrs.
James Morris of Minneapolis, sister of the bride, who was one of the attendants on the occasion of the marriage, responded to a toast on woman, and gave a clever talk on the question of "Woman and Her Emancipation." She related how one woman came to the wedding on a bicycle. She predicted that when the Derwents celebrate their golden wedding the guests will arrive in flying machines."

This wedding of twenty-five years ago took place in Christ Episcopal church, the late W. P. Ten Broeck, who was then rector of this parish, officiating.

INFORMAL COFFEE

Mrs. W. R. Sill and Miss Sill entertained at a small and informal coffee yesterday afternoon a few friends in honor of Mrs. Pope of Buenos Aires, Brazil; Mrs. Hoffman of Honolulu and Mrs. Usher of Milwaukee. It was to have been an "afternoon on the river" but on account of the inclemency of the weather the event was transferred to the home of Mrs. Sill.

HANDKERCHIEF SHOWER

Miss Amelia Bunkman entertained at a handkerchief shower Thursday evening at her home, 820 St. Andrew street. The shower was given in honor of Miss Dora Schwartz, who is to be an October bride. The decorations were in candle sticks and carnations.
The guests were the Mesdames Harry Groth, Otto Schwartz, Paul Witzke and the Misses Dora Schwartz,
Rose and Minnie Will and Amelia Bunkman.

SOCIAL BRIEFS

The Misses Selma Larsen and Mabel Bjornstad left last evening for Chicago, where they will represent the normal school Y. W. C. A. at the first annual Y. W. C. A. conference of the central field to be held on the 17th, 18th and 19th.

Miss Annie May Hanscome, who has been spending the summer with La Crosse people on the Pacific coast, returned home. While in Portland she was the guest of Mrs. Hiram Goddard, who is to spend the winter in Los Angeles with Mrs. Alex Hyslop of this city.

Mrs. Mary Rooney, who has been the guest of her nephew, Henry Rooney, has returned to her home at

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It
Darkens so Naturally
Nobody can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home.
All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

GAME WARDENS SPREAD OUT THIN

Each Must Cover 1,000
Square Miles, Says Head of State Department

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—Each game warden in Wisconsin must supervise approximately 1,000 square miles of territory, according to a compilation made by John A. Shotts, state fish and game warden. In a digest of the game laws, made at the conclusion of the legislative session, and just issued, Mr. Shotts asks for the co-operation of all the people in helping to enforce the laws.

"Contrary to popular opinion," says the warden, "the department has been a source of income to the state. Besides paying all expenses incurred by it, at the end of the year 1912 it had to its credit in the state treasury $60,044.89, which was placed in the general fund, and will pay in part the general expenses of the state. On account, however, of the rapidly increasing population, requiring additional supervision, and the increased cost of living, necessitating great expense for each deputy warden, it is barely possible that as large a percentage of net income can be shown at the end of this year."

thing is not to take it.

lon, making grudging way for the most modern motorcar. Fashion not one whit short of that of Paris rubs elbows with the half naked native. The heavy armored cruiser whistles warning to the fisherman's catamaran, a craft consisting of two logs and a sail. The truck gardener's bamboo hut on the mountainside looks down on concrete and steel structures more costly and more permanent than many cities of the United States can boast. The populace shades from pure white to anthracite and they leap at unexpected times from apparently endless apathy to violent excitement.

I enjoyed every bit of my trip. The eastern part of the United States with which I was fairly familiar by description, was much different by sight; New York appealed to me so that for two cents (approximately) I would have stayed. I found it much easier to get about New York than Chicago. I rode alone for two days and did not get lost once. The hurry and burly of the great city, its roaring activity, interested me every minute and I could not help wishing to know it better. As we were pulling out of the harbor on the good ship Vasari and the skyline which has become famous in song and story commenced to grow dim I had a very strange feeling—as though I was dropping off into space and for a minute or two I had a lump in my throat as big as the statue of liberty. But a hearty slap on the shoulder, dished out by friend Peterson, turned my attention to other things. We had a very good time going down and I found very congenial company on the boat. We were 16 days at sea before we reached Bahia, the first port and four days from there to Rio de Janeiro making twenty days in all. That, with the few days I was on the road from home to New York, made it nearly a month.

Bahia Black Town

Bahia is a city peculiar to the tropics and everything we saw (and smelled) proved that it is no place for a white man. It is as different from this city as day is from night. Two-thirds of the population there is negro and about half are half naked. It is built along the side and top of a high cliff fronting a fine bay. Part of the city lies along the beach under the cliff and one goes from the lower to the upper city in a municipal elevator or climbs a narrow ledge road cut out of the rock. The market place was most interesting to me. It was very smelly but well worth seeing. I saw offered for sale what I suppose is the principal food and every day staples of use of the people—the gardener offered vegetables similar to those we have at home. The fruit however was very different. Oranges, limes, bananas, mangoes, manihots, pineapples and many others that I have not learned the names of and many kinds of nuts and melons, were displayed in baskets. Fish, meat, birds and several kinds of small animals, imported goods, such as cloth, and many curious articles they make themselves filled the stalls. The streets are very narrow and dirty and I don't wonder that it is the home of the plague. Surrounding all is the jungle—jungle so thick that one could not penetrate it without cutting a way. Bamboo, palms, mango and rubber trees, vines and creepers form one solid mass. Beautiful butterflies, gorgeous as the rainbow swarmed around flowers overpowering in color and fragrance. It was all very strange and attractive to the sight of one American born and I suppose I could write to considerable length about it but I shall save my adjectives for Rio de Janeiro.

To Rio at Night

We arrived in the Rio de Janeiro harbor at night and my first glimpse of it was through the porthole in my cabin. What I saw made me hustle into my clothes and up on deck. The view that spread before me was one I shall never forget. The great bay, large enough to hold the fleets of the world, swarming with ships great and small and of every description, the huge mountains in a dark green background on the sides of which and in the valleys lay the rambling vari-colored city of Rio. The one thing I noticed first was the colors. The blue of the sea and sky, the hazy green of the jungle-feathered hills and the strips of city running through and around it all. The city itself is colored like the rainbow and as I stepped ashore I wondered if I had found my "rainbow." In reading my feeble attempt at description please bear in mind that it is the tropics, evidence of which is on all hands. The buildings are built to resist the heat. The people show the effect of the overhead sun in their swarthy complexions and clothing and all vegetation is unmistakably summered the year round.

This is the close of the "winter" and all vegetation is taking a fresh start. The giant royal palms, which would make good shade trees for the skyscrapers of New York, are sending up long new sprouts—and by the way, the heart of these new sprouts is excellent food. It tastes something like mushrooms. The wistaria is all abloom with large crimson butterfly-like blossoms. The little creepers and vines are sending out new leaves draping the houses and walls in a fresh coat of green. Even the small lizards, that are familiar occupants of every household, are coming out of their winter quarters to do battle against the increasing hordes of flies and insects that find ready access to the interior of the houses.

These small lizards are curious little beasts. They run up the side of a wall or across the ceiling as swiftly as a mouse gets around on the floor. They are very tame and the people do not molest them. They are welcome visitors as they take the place of flypaper. They have the power of changing their color to resemble that of the wall they are on. The weather has been very comfortable so far—like early in the summer at home. They tell me it gets up to 110 degrees during the months of January and February but that even then the heat is not unbearable. It may be true for there are many Americans and English who have spent many years here and seem to thrive on it.

Careful of Health

The city of Rio is a very modern city in some ways and very ancient in others. It has a health department I believe to be much more efficient than that in New York. They take every precaution against the invasion of yellow fever, bubonic plague, small pox and other epidemics indigent to tropical climate, with the result that this is considered a very healthful place to live. It is four years since yellow fever made its last appearance.

The streets and alleys are as clean as the main street of La Crosse and it seems to me that this is a remarkable condition in view of the nature of the people. Like Sampson, who lost his strength by getting his hair cut, most of them would lose their strength by taking a bath. Still they implicitly obey the orders of the health department.

The fire department, or bombeiros, seldom has work to do, but when it has, it directs a flow of language towards the flames which would conquer the fiercest of fires. But, all joking aside, it is equipped with automobile fire fighting apparatus and it surely gets on the scene promptly.

Water Cold and Soft

The water supply comes from the mountains which surround the city on all sides. The water is very cold and soft. It is so soft that when a person gets all lathered up with soap in the bath, the water will hardly take it off. It is brought down from the mountains through conduits, some of which were built by monks before the revolutionary war in the American colonies and the stability of their work proves their efficiency as engineers.

Politics is a great game here. They play it with a six shooter in each hand and a dirk in their teeth. I am told that graft as it is known in the states is an infant's game compared to that here. It is said that a man considers his fortune made if he can be elected to the senate or assembly. It is the shortest cut to great wealth in this country. "Fighting Tom" Bosshard and "General Tom" Morris would find this a great country in which to push the progressive cause. A "fight" in the senate here means a hurry up call for the ambulances. There are two parties: the military party and the civil party. The civil party is larger but the military candidate is elected every time. The present president is a military party candidate and it is said that the last election was accomplished by surrounding the voting booths with troops and destroying the ballots cast by the civil party men. They have modeled their government after the United States of America and have even copied our goddess of liberty on their coins. The central government exerts very little influence on the distant states and those in the interior and there is a revolution brewing all the time in these distant states but they seldom get through the jungle. The only time there is real trouble is when a revolt breaks out in the city. The last one was three or four years ago and it is said that the innocent bystanders shed considerable blood.

The navy and army are constitutionally at outs and the last row was between the fleet in the harbor and the batteries on shore. There was an island in the harbor which was seized by the sailors and the shore batteries bombarded it into a heap of ruins which are still there. It is said that shooting at the island became such a popular sport that the soldiers would let any one take a shot at it with their canon for ten milres, which is about $3.33. The sports hereabout would bet each other the price of the shots and then knock a chunk out of the mountain a mile on the other side. They do not have another election until a year from this November so that I will have plenty of time to find a good bomb-proof cellar.

Handle Freight Well

This is a great port and they handle their freight and transport business very well and have unloading and loading facilities in the shape of "caes," wharves or quays that would put New York to shame.

Railroads With Rickets

The railroads are owned by the government and they are nothing to boast about. A ride on one of the trains is considerably more dangerous than a revolution. The transportation business in the city is done in many different ways but is becoming an increasing problem. The street car company handles much of the business with baggage cars. Mule teams, ox carts, ten-man-crowed auto trucks, hand trucks and just ordinary human carriers are called in to use. They carry all their burdens on their heads and it is astonishing the amount they can left and carry in this way. I have seen three men carrying a piano on their heads, running along at a dog trot. It is probable that their destination was a mile or so distant. The way they balance a load on their head is nothing short of marvelous. I have seen a man carrying a huge basket of stuff on his head leap on the running board of a street car when the car was going nearly full speed without lifting his hands to his burden. As jugglers, they surely beat anything I have ever seen. One of them feels very humiliated if he accidentally drops his burden. Nearly all of the smaller coaster boats are unloaded by men and it is a great sight to see the long line of men running from the boat to the warehouse with bags of sugar or coffee or whatever they are unloading, balanced on their heads. This method of carrying loads has given the men and women of the poorer classes a remarkable physical development and carriage. They are broad shouldered and walk from their hips.

The upper classes, however, are very poor specimens of manhood indeed. They are striking evidence of the degeneracy which follows generations of idleness. The women are far superior to the men in the ruling class—black hair and the languid eyes that go with a passionate nature. They are small but very well formed. The class of men who join the army are the poorest specimens of manhood I have ever seen unless it is the men in the police department. They are seldom more than five feet five inches tall and about twenty inches around the chest. I saw a very funny thing the other day down on the wharf. A big husky stevedore had gotten himself filled up with chassis and devilment. Chassis is a powerful drink made out of sugar cane juice. The police were called and eight of them arrived in the patrol wagon. I wish you could have seen those puny little fellows try to arrest the dock hand. He just had the time of his life knocking them about. He threw some of them so far it is a wonder they found their way back. One of them finally sneaked up behind him and cracked him over the nut with his saber and then all eight of them sat on him in the thousands of people streamed out to the aviation field.

Another Takes Air

While thousands of Berliners were racing to Johannisthal to see the remains of the L-2 Zepplin passenger cruiser Hansa suddenly appeared over the capital. She was greeted with cheers by the crowds who saw her.

It was said that the Hansa was ordered aloft to counteract the effect on the public of what is now admitted to be the greatest catastrophe in the history of German aviation.

The destroyed dirigible was the particular pet of Count Zeppelin. While she was building he announced that she might be used to attempt a flight across the Atlantic to New York, from there perhaps to San Francisco for the Panama-Pacific exposition. He afterward abandoned the project.

Count Zeppelin, when informed of today's accident, broke down. He was unable to make a statement.

Bodies Under Flights

The fire-blasted, twisted aluminum frame of the L-2 lay on the field where, like a huge skeleton, bent into an almost unrecognizable mass of scrap metal, while in the aerial sheds fifteen hundred yards away lay the charred and mangled bodies of the dead, covered with flags and guarded by soldiers.

One German naval officer was the sole survivor of perhaps the most awful tragedy of the air in history. Physicians have hope of his recovery, though he was frightfully burned and mangled.

The rescuers found all of the bodies burned. The bodies of the officer who had been the pilot, scarred and blackened, was found still at the remains of the wheel, which had been in the first cabin.

The sole survivor of the accident was Lieutenant Baron von Bluel of the Queen Augusta of the Grenadier guards.

Three Airmen Killed
BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Captain Haeseler, a military aviator, was killed early today when his aeroplane fell at Breslau. Lieutenant Von Freyberg, his aide, was not injured. About the same time Lieutenant Koch and his aide, Sergeant Mante, fell near Wuertzburg, and both were killed.

ELATED BY SUCCESS OF FARMERS' DOY

Business Men Ticked at Overwhelming Response to Invitation; Would Make Annual Affair

BOGUS MARRIAGE LEGAL? OH, MY!

Manager Koppelberger's Little Joke Nearly Broke Up Majestic Theater's Vaudeville Bill

"It was a glorious victory." This is the sentiment with which merchants of the city are patting themselves on the back, as a result of the great success of farmers' day yesterday. Harry Taggart, secretary of the retail merchants' association, which started the movement and boosted the affair to a success, Wednesday declared there would be 3,000 people in town for the occasion. Even he was surprised when the final figure showed that upwards of 4,500 persons had flocked into the city, taking advantage of the local business men's liberal invitation to come in and own the town.

The sightseers were busy all day, and there was not a big factory in town which was not filled almost all the time with curiously inclined country neighbors. The streets were packed, and the theaters, opened free to the public for the day, did a land office business.

It was late in the evening before many of them got away, and the processions streaming out of the city by horse, foot and automobile nearly choked the roads.

One man, who was coming down the river in a motor boat from a hunting trip, insisted that there was a circus leaving town, when he saw Judge Farrell's La Crescent delegation filing back over the bridge late in the evening. He declares the procession took forty-five minutes to pass a given point.

That the occasion will become an annual institution is the prevailing sentiment today. Business men of the city are elated over the success of the first effort, and are strong for forming even more elaborate plans next year.

Marriage Legal

"You are legally married. The lack of a license does not invalidate the wedding, excepting in case one or both of the contracting parties is a minor, in which case parents or guardian may have the union declared void."

Presented with this legal opinion, in writing, late yesterday by Manager Frank Koppelberger's private attorney, Harry Seymour and Marie Fitzgibbons, vaudeville performers at the Majestic, who yesterday impersonated the bride and groom at the Market square public wedding, spent an embarrassed half hour.

Then it came out.

Disappointment when two couples who had been competing for the privilege of being married on Farmers' day, for a rich prize, backed out at the last moment, the entertainment committee resolved not to disappoint the gala day crowd, and arranged the mock marriage. The vaudeville stars looked with favor upon the prize that had been hung up, and consented to put on the skit.

It was a splendid piece of acting. The groom's simulation of embarrassment when he frisked his pockets for the ring, and the blushing, giggling anticipation with which the blonde lady approached the mystery of wedlock, gave to the performance realistic comedy that brought applause and laughter from the multitude.

But just as the "happy couple" were leaving the stand, our waggy Judge Langstad whispered in the ear of the bride:

Judge "Starts Something"

"By golly, I think it iss legal, if you want id to dick."

The lady hastened to Manager Koppelberger, full of trouble.

"Don't worry," said Kop. "The judge is crazy; I'll get an opinion from my lawyer, just to show you."

In the presence of Miss Fitzgibbons Mr. Koppelberger called his lawyer on the telephone, and asked for a written opinion. Then he went out and got the lawyer on another telephone, and said:

"Say it's legal, I want to throw a scare into 'em."

"When she read the written opinion Miss Fitzgibbons went into a fit of hysteria, and it took Kop, his recanting lawyer and a physician half an hour to bring the lady around. She recovered in time for the evening performance, however.

"Guess I don't look very good to that dame," said Seymour, the bogus groom, whose head didn't swell a particle when he saw the lady throw a fit at the idea of really having annexed him "for better or worse."

TANGOES IN COURT TO PROVE DANCE IS NOT UNFIT FOR CITY

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 17.—To tango or not to tango? Thousands of devotees of terpsichorean art in Cleveland are breathlessly awaiting the decision of the question by Common Pleas Judge Vickery. It was brought into court yesterday when the suit of Asa Anderson, a dancing teacher, asking for an injunction against the order of Chief of Police Rowe and City Dance Hall Inspector Meyers, that the tango can not be taught here, came up for a hearing.

A thousand spectators, mostly women, jammed the court room and watched Anderson and a fair partner demonstrate his version of the popular dance. Anderson danced so well that even the court, as a spectator, admitted that "it was certainly graceful."

But the city came back with a rebuttal that stirred the crowd. J. Gregory Keane, a Chicago dancing master, with a partner gave an excellent exhibition of the so-called Bunny Hug and Grizzly Bear, including all the latest wriggles and wiggles. He said these were all versions of the tango.

The work at the county court house was at a standstill and officials admitted that the county had been tangoed out of about $1,000 worth of labor.

DOG POISONER AT WORK IN THE CITY

Four Canines and Six Cats Killed by Mysterious Agent in Five Days

Deep mystery surrounds the poisoning of four dogs and six cats in one block on Adams street, within the last five days. The dogs were of expensive breeds and valued highly. No motive for the poisoning has been learned.

Three of the dogs poisoned were owned by Charles Harzor, George Burger and William Euler. The six cats that have been poisoned were all within the radius of one and a half blocks. The first dog to be lost was a beagle hound owned by George Burger. At the same time two cats died.

A veterinary surgeon was summoned who pronounced the poisoning to have resulted from a form of strychnine.

The dog owners claim to have no enemies who would poison the animals. No threats have been made against the lives of the animals and the owners are in a quandary to determine a reason for the act.

Complete search has been made in the alleys and yards in the vicinity of the happening in an endeavor to find traces of the poisoner, to no avail. Other dog owners in the block are keeping their pets tied in their kennels and at home for fear of repetitions of the act.

CANNERIES DROP FIGHT

FILE NOTICE THAT THEY ADMIT CHARGES AND AWAIT JUDGMENT BY THE COURTS

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—The five branches of the Wisconsin Pea Canners company against whom the industrial commission has lodged ninety-five counts for alleged violation of the women's hours of labor law, have filed notice with Attorney General Owen that they admit the charges and await judgment by the courts as soon as the circuit court convenes in the counties where the branches are located. The companies will be fined.

The minimum is ten dollars for each count. Several other companies have written their desire to have the suits against them settled without contest.

Wisconsin as well as New York has a new governor today. He is John S. Donald. Owing to the absence of Governor McGovern, who is in California, and Lieutenant Governor Morris, who is in Missouri, the secretary of state becomes acting governor. The chief executive has failed to notify any of the departments, entitled to know, of his absence.

ROLLS PEANUT TO PAY SERIES' BET

The aftermath of the world's series was witnessed by a crowd of jeering persons yesterday afternoon, when Alfred Kile, alias "Kyl," a stereotyper employed at The Tribune, who picked the Giants to win, squared his error in judgment by rolling a peanut from The Tribune office to the corner of Fifth and Main streets and back. Toothpicks served as the levers with which "Kyl" boosted the nut (said to be symbolic, as representing his baseball judgment), along the slippery bricks. Despite the rain, a good-sized squad of unsympathetic souls "cheered" the loser on his slow journey.

CONTINUES TALE OF BRIBERY ATTEMPT

Vera Chebervak Tells of Small Fortunes Offered by the Police and Others

WITNESS IN OMAHA SPEAKS

Man Who Fled Russia After Murder Says Chebervak Woman Dislikes Beilis

KIEFF, Russia, Oct. 17.—Vera Chebervak, continuing her amazing story of bribery in connection with the ritual murder was on the stand again today in the Beilis trial. She told of more small fortunes offered her by newspapermen, Russian officials, secret police and attorneys for the defense if she would tell the world that she killed Andrew Yushinsky.

The Chebervak woman has been notorious in the Beilis neighborhood for several years and if her stories made any impression on the high court, the judges did not show signs of it.

Mendel Beilis, the defendant, is the most insignificant character in the whole trial. His name was barely mentioned today and some days he does not figure at all in the stenographic record. The case has become a war of rival culis.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 17.—Vera Chebervak, the notorious woman who has persistently accused Mendel Beilis in the "ritual murder" trial at Kieff, "framed" her charges against the Jew solely because of her dislike for him, according to Julius Chorney, a Russian Jew, who was the first man to reach the body of Andrew Yushinsky, the slain youth, whose killing resulted in the trial. Chorney was foreman of a brick factory in Kieff and was called to the scene of the crime by some frightened boys who found the body. He was arrested with Beilis and held in jail for six days. Upon his release he came to America and has been in Omaha for the last three months.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Congressional protest against the trial at Kieff, Russia, of the Jew Mendel Beilis, for alleged "ritual murder" was asked today by Representative Sabath of Illinois. He introduced a house resolution proposing that the congress declare its disbelief in the charges and instruct Secretary of State Bryan to so notify the Russian Government.

SENDS $50 IN SOCK TO MODERN LAUNDRY

Victor Foote "socked" away the profits of his Rushford merry-go-round, and thereby came near losing them, because he chose the wash-basket as his safety deposit vault. Foote's unique choice of a depository was discovered in La Crosse this morning, when a bundle of soiled clothes came from the Minnesota town to the Modern Laundry. Miss Tillie Witzkie, 520 West avenue north, was "marking in" the bundle. She felt something unfamiliar in a sock, and turned it out. 'Twas a roll of bills, amount $50. Miss Witzkie at once notified the office of the laundry, which got in to communication with its agent at Rushford, and through him with Foote. Foote by that time had discovered his loss, and had given up hope of seeing his roll again. When he heard that it had been found he shook hands with himself and ordered that a "fiver" be given to Miss Witzkie.

FEDERAL LAW TO AID STATE TAXING

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—The incorporation of a provision in the tariff bill amending the income tax clause so that the reports of corporations to the federal government may be received and examined by the state government will aid in the enforcement of the state income tax law, according to Prof. T. S. Adams, a member of the state tax commission. The amendment was incorporated by motion of Senator La Follette. At present the returns of corporations under the federal law have not been at the disposal of the state tax commissions, but the La Follette amendment accomplishes the result.

BOB CRITICIZES NELSON MEASURE

Says Seamen's Bill Now Before Senate Is Mixture with Evil Pre-dominating

URGES PASSAGE OF HIS BILL

Scores "Gruesome Life" Led by Sailors Under the Contract System

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—Seizing upon the appalling death roll of lives lost in the "Volturno" as a text, Senator La Follette today, in a leading editorial in La Follette's weekly, under the caption of "An Uneven Fight," says that this congress should pass a Seamen's bill that will do credit to the humanity and intelligence of Americans. In unsparing terms, he characterizes Senator Nelson's bill, which has been favorably reported in the senate, as "a mixture of good and evil with the evil predominating." The fourth bill to be introduced at this session of congress was a Seamen's bill by Senator La Follette, and he has served notice that he will attempt to have this measure adopted.

Denounces System
In typically La Follette language, the gruesome life surrounding service as sailors under a contract system, in vogue for the past twenty years, is denounced by the senator. He declares that life upon ships is slavery, so degrading that the Americans have been driven from the service and their places filled by men from the Mediterranean, from Arabia, India, South Africa, China and Japan.

"Under these conditions it is to be marveled at that fifteen hundred and seventeen souls were lost when the 'Titanic' went down, two hours and a half after she collided with the iceberg, in a sea as smooth as glass," says Senator La Follette. "It followed a long list of shipwrecks attended with great loss of life among which were the 'General Slocum,' the 'Elba,' the 'La Bourgoyne,' the 'City of Rio de Janeiro,' the 'Norge,' the 'Valencia,' the 'Oceana,' and many others, each disaster in large measure, if not entirely, the direct result of bad equipment and low standard of efficiency, and as these lines are written the wireless brings the horrible story of the loss of the 'Volturno' in mid-ocean, with an appalling death roll."

Senator La Follette says that the Nelson bill is an exact copy of the measure vetoed by President Taft. American seamen demand legislation, he declares, that will require a sufficient number of able seamen to safely man a vessel. The measure must be no makeshift.

Changed Bills
"On the first day of the present session of congress, I introduced the Seamen's bill," says Senator La Follette. "It was the fourth bill introduced. It is the bill which passed the house last session. It was referred to the senate committee on commerce. Instead of reporting that bill (senate No. 4) the committee reported a bill (senate No. 136) introduced by Senator Nelson at this session. It is the identical bill which President Taft vetoed. It is a mixture of good and evil, with the evil predominating. If it should become a law, it would enable Hill to continue to supplant American seamen with Chinese on his Oriental lines."

"Although efforts were made to post one the consideration of even this bill until next session, by order of the senate the roll will be called upon its passage at four o'clock on October 23. "It is my hope and my belief that the senate will defeat this bill and pass instead senate bill No. 4 on that day."

JAIL SENTENCES FOR LIQUOR MEN

Federal Judge Issues a Warning to Men Alleged to Have Sold Liquor to Indians

Following the finding of twelve Hurley, Wis., saloonkeepers yesterday, for selling liquor to Indians, Federal Judge A. L. Sanborn issued the warning to the men that the next offense will mean a term in Fort Leavenworth penitentiary.

All of the men were fined after they had entered pleas of guilty and $175 was the sum demanded by the government for their violations of the law.

"The next offense," warned Judge Sanborn, "will be punished by sentences to Fort Leavenworth," was the warning of the judge.

This is taken to indicate that the government has determined to stamp out the sale of liquor to the redmen and is in accord with the recent warning of the government that any saloonkeeper proven guilty of selling to Indians would lose his government license. This would virtually mean putting them out of business.

Alec Goodman, Superior, Wis., brought here by Deputy United States Marshal W. T. Pugh, is one of the first men in Wisconsin to be indicted under the interstate commerce act, for robbing box cars. Mr. Goodman, it is alleged, broke the seal on a car in transit between two states. He was indicted by the grand jury at Superior.

ALL THE SCHOOLS TO SAVE PENNIES

Penny Savings Association Gets All Educational Institutions of City Behind Movement

FIVE NEW ONES ADDED THIS YEAR

"$12,000 in Bank and 2,000 Open Accounts by Jan. 1" Is Slogan Set Before Pupils

With all of the schools in the city lined up behind the movement, the Penny Savings Association of this city is looking forward to the most successful year in its history, according to an announcement today by Mrs. R. B. Lowry, secretary of the publicity and promotion committee, who has just completed a "stumping tour" of the schools in behalf of the association.

Five schools have taken up the work for the first time this year. They are the Immanuel Lutheran, the Holy Cross Catholic, the St. John's Catholic, the St. Wendel's Catholic and the Holy Trinity Catholic schools.

"Twelve thousand dollars in the bank and 2,000 open accounts by January 1," was the slogan given to the school children by Mrs. Lowry on her speaking trips. She spoke to all grades of the pupils, from the kindergarten up, making talks in twenty-one school buildings, 134 rooms. Her audiences comprised a total of 5,118 children.

The penny saving association members had $10,587.13 drawing interest in the banks September 1. There were 1,467 children possessing accounts, with an average of $7.21 on deposit. During the month of September 15 new accounts were added, and $389.75 added to the amount on deposit.

PLAN BONFIRE TO CELEBRATE VICTORY

Normal Students Collect Materials for Big Blaze After River Falls' Expected Defeat

Normal school pupils are collecting material today for a big bonfire tomorrow night, with which they expect to celebrate a victory over River Falls in their first big football game of the year. The bonfire will be set ablaze only in case of victory, it was announced.

The River Falls team and band of rooters will arrive in La Crosse tomorrow morning, and a delegation of La Crosse rooters headed by the normal school band will meet them at the train.

The junior class held its annual reception at the school last night. A musical program was arranged between the dances. Thomson's orchestra furnished the music.

SPORTSMEN KICK ON GAME RULING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Sportsmen of the Mississippi valley protested to congress today against a ruling of the department of agriculture that water fowl may not be killed on the Mississippi river between Minneapolis and Memphis. It is claimed that the department agreed to allow hunting of this kind on three big rivers, the Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio. Speaker Champ Clark presented a strong remonstrance in behalf of Missouri sportsmen.

wagon. As they were going off in the distance every once in a while I could see a heave under the heap and two or three of them would spill overboard.

Buildings Permanent

All buildings are built of brick, concrete or stone and all are hard finished in cement. They are built for permanency and I have seen many of them more than a hundred years old. The exteriors are beautifully decorated in bright colors. The dwellings are finished in tile work as pretty as Haviland china. Often the exterior is painted in flowers or to represent scenes at sea, or landscape. Beautiful flowering vines complete the decoration. Every house has a garden and a high stone wall surrounds all. They are wonderful landscape gardeners, and the home of the rich man here is beautiful beyond description. They know very little, however, about furnishing their homes for comfort. Their furniture is the stiff backed stuff our forefathers used.

The people have many peculiar customs some of which are hard to understand. Their style of greeting is very affectionate. They throw their arms around each other and pat one another on the back. Real good friends kiss each other on each cheek. In trying to attract another's attention a Brazilian does not whistle or call out like an American. He hisses and it gave me a very strange sensation when they hissed at me at first but I have become accustomed to it. They are great gamblers. The government in co-partnership with a syndicate runs a lottery which is pulled off every day. I am told that 70,000 tickets are sold for this lottery every day. The daily prize is about $35,000 but the Saturday and holiday prizes are $65,000. Brazilians will go without food and clothing to play the lottery or Bicho.

Natives Lazy

The favorite word with the native is "amalia" which means "tomorrow." He will never do anything today that he can do tomorrow and he hopes that something will come up to prevent it then. This spirit perhaps accounts for their faith in the lottery. They work very slowly but I must confess that they do their work very well. They are of a highly developed artistic temperament and an ordinary stone mason is a sculptor of no small ability. The painters' work is very beautiful as the decorations on the homes show. I have seen flowers carved in stone on some of their homes that are as thin as cardboard. One wonders how they did it without breaking the stone.

Brazil is very rich in natural resources. An English syndicate once offered to pay the Brazilian national debt, which is enormous, for the privilege of gathering the rubber along the Amazon but Brazil wisely preferred the debt. Great coffee and sugar haciendas or plantations have made some of their owners enormously rich—so rich in fact that they far outshine our American millionaires. There are some of the richest diamond fields in the world out of Bahia and the forests are thick with valuable woods. Iron, copper, gold and silver are said to fairly lay the interior hills but the government demands forty per cent of all products of mining and this industry has not yet developed. They have no coal, however, and all of this commodity is imported. It seems as if all necessities of life are imported except food and this makes living expenses high. On the average the cost of living here is three times what it is in the states. Clothing, especially is very expensive unless he wants to live like a native—in a blouse, cotton trousers and wooden soled shoes.

The Avenida Central, which is the show street of the city and by far the most beautiful I have ever seen and which is more crowded than Broadway New York, runs from water to water through the business section of the city. It is about a mile in length and opens onto a fifteen mile drive around the bay. I have seen automobiles six deep the entire length of the Avenida. And nearly every car in the procession was made in Europe. There are a few American cars but the big majority are imported from France, Italy and Germany. It is said that the Americans can compete successfully with the European manufacturers in automobiles but that they have simply neglected their market and have made little effort to obtain this trade.

Some U. S. Firms Awake

Some American firms, notably the Standard Oil company, building material manufacturers, typewriter companies, machine manufacturers and a few automobile companies are awake to the opportunity and sell a great amount of goods here. Others will no doubt follow their example as the demand for market grows more pressing in the states. When this time comes it will mean great opportunity for an enormous number of young Americans in the selling field. I believe that it would be a profitable venture for the public schools of the states to teach Spanish for this is going to be in great demand when America decides to cultivate the acquaintance of her southern neighbors and in talking with the men who do things here and know all phases of the situation I have come to the conclusion that this time is not far distant. The opening of the Panama canal will hasten the time several decades.

I think perhaps that this is about all you can digest at one time and I will reserve a little for the future. Believe me there is plenty to write about and I will be only too glad to send you my impressions if you will reciprocate by letting me know that old La Crosse is still in the game.

I am working for the Light and Power company in the engineering department under Roy Peterson. Peterson is one of the big men of the company and has won his place on his own efforts. It is needless to say that the light and power company is the backbone of the development of this part of the country. It furnishes light, street car service, power, telephone service and does a big transportation business for this city and the cities of Santos and Soa Paulo. The men who have made the company have made the country and Peterson has had his share in the work. He has a multitude of friends here both among our people and the Brazilians and I am indeed fortunate to be under his wing. I am working as a sort of private secretary to him.

I would consider it all kinds of good fortune if I could get the La Crosse Tribune here. Although it gets here a month late it contains news for us.

Please convey my kindest regards to Mrs. Brayton and the kiddies and to Burgess and all the fellows in The Tribune building. As soon as I get around to it I shall send you pictures of this city and they will give you a much better idea of what it is like than anything I can write.

If anyone in La Crosse should be kind enough to inquire please tell them I am in the best of health and on the road to prosperity (X—indicating that my fingers are crossed) and that I wish them the same. Don't forget or delay to write to your old city editor.

Sempre seu,

RESTRICT WORK OF INDEMNITY BOARD

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—(Special)—There must be a reasonable presumption that a prisoner is innocent before cognizance will be taken of his case by the board of indemnity of prisoners created at the last session of the legislature. No sooner had the measure been signed by the governor than John F. Dietz made application for a hearing and since that time a number of other prisoners, who claim to be innocent, have written the board of control about the subjects. The position taken by the board of control is that a complaint of this character would first come in an application for pardon and that any unusual circumstances would be brought to the attention of the board. Wisconsin is the first state to pass a law for the indemnity of innocent prisoners. A board composed of the governor and board of control may hear the case and if they find the person innocent a sum not exceeding $1,500 or $5,000 all together may be awarded. President Ralph B. Smith of the board of control says that prisoners watch all legislation of this character with the closest interest.

DISPENSATIONS ARE THING OF THE PAST

New Law Has Put Stop to "Marriage in Haste" in State of Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—The indiscriminate granting of special dispensations to marry in order to circumvent the requirement that five days elapse from the time of the issuance of the license to the ceremony is done away with by a new law now in effect. Officials of the state bureau of vital statistics say that the abuse has almost disappeared as a result. The tendency of judges to grant dispensations upon the expectation of being chosen to perform the ceremony, thereby reaping a comfortable fee, is said to have multiplied the number of special permits issued to bridal couples.

Unless some exceptional situation exists in La Crosse county, the state officials entertain skepticism as to the La Crosse report that new marriage laws are driving Wisconsin couples to Minnesota to have the knot tied. With the new physical examination law not effective until Jan. 1 it is pointed out that there is little in the present laws to inspire fear.

Old-Time Health, Eating Grape-Nuts

"I had been sick for 10 years with dyspepsia and a lot of complications," wrote an Ark. woman.

"An operation was advised, change of climate was suggested, but no one seemed to know just what was the matter. I was in bed three days in the week and got so thin I weighed only 89 lbs. No food seemed to agree with me.

"I told my husband I was going to try some kind of predigested food to see if I could keep from this feeling of continued hunger.

"Grape-Nuts and cream was the food I got and nothing has seemed to satisfy me like it. I never feel hungry, but have a natural appetite. Have had no nervous spells since I began this food, and have taken no medicine.

"I have gained so much strength that I now do all my housework and feel well and strong. My weight has increased 8 lbs. in 8 weeks and I shall always eat Grape-Nuts as it is far pleasanter than taking medicines." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Praises This Remedy for Lung Trouble

Many people are led to believe that Lung Trouble is a disease which cannot be conquered. This is wrong, as many have fully recovered their health. A change of climate has helped some, but many more have been restored to health by breathing the freshest air, eating well cooked wholesome food, being temperate in their habits and adding the tonic qualities of Eckman's Alternative, a medicine for Throat and Lung Troubles. Investigate this case:—

Bowling Green, Ky., R. No. 4.
"Gentlemen: The spring of 1908 I had a severe cough for six months. I tried all the medicine that my doctors recommended to me, but no results came for the better. I had night sweats, and would cough and spit until I got so weak I could hardly do anything. But, at last, James Deering, of Glasgow Junction, insisted that I try your medicine. In one week's time there was quite an improvement in my condition, and after I had taken several bottles I felt as well as ever in my life. I firmly believe that Eckman's Alternative will relieve any case of lung trouble if taken before the last stage." (Affidavit)

KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES DISAPPEAR

Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses of Croxone

If you are bothered with backache—or rheumatism, have disagreeable, annoying bladder or urinary disorders to contend with—or suffer with any other of the many miseries that come from weak kidneys, here is a guaranteed remedy you can depend upon.

It is a positive fact that Croxone promptly overcomes such diseases. It soaks right in and cleans out the stopped up kidneys and makes them filter and sift out the poisonous waste matter from the blood. It neutralizes and dissolves the uric acid that lodges in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the delicate linings of the bladder.

More than a few doses of Croxone are seldom required to relieve even the obstinate, long standing cases.

You will find Croxone entirely different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package costs but a trifle, and your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give the desired results the very first time.

SAYS GLASS BILL WON'T WORK OUT

Will Have Currency Problem as Confused as Before Declares John M. Holley

FAULT WITH REGIONAL RESERVE

Says that Safety Suggests Fewer Than Twelve Banks for Start of the System

That the Glass currency bill, as at present framed, will if passed, leave the currency problem of the country as far from solution as at the present time is the belief of John M. Holley, cashier of the State Bank of La Crosse, who has just returned from the bankers' convention at Boston. Mr. Holley finds five chief faults with the bill which he declares should be rectified before the measure is passed.

"One of the serious defects in the currency bill now pending," said Mr. Holley, "is that the bill cannot do what it proposes to do. It aims at comprehensive reform of currency and banking by establishing a logical and permanent system which we have never had since this government was founded. We will not have it if this bill should become a law in its present form. It does not simplify the currency. The currency will be just as confused as before."

"I firmly believe there is no foundation for the claim that there is a demand on the part of the American people that the administrative control of the banks should be turned over wholly to the government."

Better Than it Was

"I feel that the measure is in much better shape now than it was a few months ago before the opposition to some of its features on the part of the bankers and business men generally became so pronounced. Every delay has worked for the betterment of the bill but there is still much to be desired before the measure will meet the requirements for permanency legislation."

"I am of the opinion that the bill should be modified approximately along the lines recommended by the bankers' conference recently held at Chicago, if it is to be made a workable measure which will be sound and useful instead of destructive."

Finds Five Troubles

"The features standing out prominently which call for modification are briefly:

"First—Representation of the federal reserve board and limitation of the powers of that board."

"It does not seem consistent with the principles of American government that the banks should be required to furnish all the capital for the proposed reserve banks and not be permitted, even a minority, representation in the management of the institution."

"Second—Compulsory investment in the stock of the proposed regional banks under penalty of dissolution."

"Third—Compulsory deposits in the proposed reserve banks with prohibition against their withdrawal, transforming such deposits from cash means into permanent capital investment which could only be realized upon by the liquidation of the bank."

"Fourth—Fixing the number of reserve banks at twelve, thereby decentralizing the reserves of the country. Safety would suggest starting the system with fewer regional banks."

"Fifth—Making the new currency notes obligations of the regional reserve banks instead of the government and their final redemption to be in gold instead of, as provided in the house bill, 'gold or other lawful money.'"

Other Changes Superficial

"Other modifications, however important some of them may seem, are rather details of management which, with actual experience, can be modified or changed."

"I am hopeful that the senate will succeed in so amending the measure that the people in this country will find in it the real currency reform which we so much need."

Balkan Coat

Here is an idea from the Balkans—a blouse, a dash of daring color, a little style that Paris added, all carried out in yarn to make the most striking "sweater" of the season. It is crocheted in a very easy stitch, and the cost is just about one-quarter of what you would have to pay if you could buy the coat ready-made. Send the coupon below for complete directions. The yarn used is Fleisher's Germantown Zephyr, 4-fold, one of the sixteen

FLEISHER YARNS

Four-fifths of the yarn users of America have been using the Fleisher Yarns for years. Their experience should convince you that you also should use only the Fleisher Yarns. You will find that garments made of these yarns look best and wear longest. Whatever kind of yarn you need, always insist on Fleisher's—look for the trade-mark on every skein.

MAY TIE UP MINES IN WYOMING ALSO

DENVER, Col., Oct. 17.—With the arrival in Denver today of 25 cars of Wyoming union mined coal, local officials of the union miners predicted a walkout of the 8,000 men in the Wyoming mines before the end of the week. This would cut off the only source of supply on which the Colorado Coal operators have depended to force the union men into submission, and bring on a coal famine in Denver almost immediately. Colorado coal sold for $7 a ton today, local dealers handling it predicting a raise to $10 on the first of the week.

A complete tie-up of city affairs, within ten days because of the inability to place orders for steam coal is possible. Commissioner of Supplies. Reed today appealed to every coal operating company in the state, following the announcement of the American Fuel company that it could not continue filling its contract with the city because of the strike.

All Clogged Up? Here's Quick Relief

A Simple Remedy to Correct Constipation Before it Becomes Chronic

Very few people go through life without some time or other being troubled with constipation. Thousands injure themselves by the use of strong cathartics, salts, mineral waters, pills and similar things. They have temporary value in some cases, it is true, but the good effect is soon lost, and the more one takes of them the less effective they become.

A physic or purgative is seldom necessary, and much better and more permanent results can be obtained by using a scientific remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It does not hide behind a high sounding name, but is what it is represented to be, a mild laxative medicine. It is so mild that thousands of mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet it is so compounded, and contains such definite ingredients that it will have equally good effect when used by a person suffering from the worst chronic constipation. In fact, among the greatest endorsers of Syrup Pepsin are elderly people who have suffered for years and found nothing to benefit them until they took Syrup Pepsin.

It is a fact that millions of families have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, homes made of Mr. H. W. Fenstermaker, Siegfried, Pa. He says he has had wonderful results from the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, that, in fact, he has never found a remedy so good, and he is glad to recommend it. The special value of this grand laxative tonic is that it is suited to the needs of every member of the family. It is pleasant tasting, mild and non-gripping. Unlike harsh physics, it works gradually and in a very brief time the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to do their work naturally again, when all medicines can be dispensed with.

You can obtain a bottle at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar. The latter size is usually bought by families who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

Engel was walking down the steps from the porch at his daughter's home when the smooth soles of a new pair of shoes which he had just put on caused him to slip and he fell to the walk breaking his neck and dying instantly. VARSITY SQUAD IS READY FOR PURDUE

Men Put Through Last Practice Before Game with the Boilermakers Saturday

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—Coach Juneau put his men through their paces in a long session of secret practice for the last time Thursday afternoon before the Purdue game on Saturday. Signal practice, work in handling punts, forward passes and tackling constituted the first part of the final workout. Scrimmage completed the program.

Plans are now complete for a monster student demonstration to be held at the Northwestern station at 5:40 Friday afternoon, when the Badgers leave for Lafayette, Ind., to meet the Purdue eleven in one of the most important games of the 1913 schedule. The university band, followed by a procession of rosters, will parade through the downtown district to the station.

Football records show that of the six games played between Wisconsin and Purdue since the establishment of athletic relations between the two schools, Wisconsin has won five to the Boilermakers' one.

The record of former Purdue games follows:

1892—Wisconsin, 6; Purdue, 34.
1893—Wisconsin, 36; Purdue, 30.
1894—Wisconsin, 6; Purdue, 9.
1906—Wisconsin, 23; Purdue, 5.
1907—Wisconsin, 12; Purdue, 6.
1912—Wisconsin, 41; Purdue, 0.

The probable lineup for Saturday's game:

Wisconsin—Lange, le; Buck, lt; Gelein, lg; Powell, c; Keeler, rg; Butler, rt; Ostie, re; Bellows, q; Torney, lb; Cummings, rh; Tandberg, f.

Purdue—Turner, le; Usser, lt; Routh, lg; Glossop, c; Bishop, rg; Blocker, rt; Inchfield, re; Finn, q; O'Brien, lb; Oliphant, rh; East, f.

CUT COST OF PROM
AT "U" TO $3.00

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—According to a ruling of the student conference of the University of Wisconsin, the old fashioned elaborate junior prom is to be succeeded in the future by a prom, the cost of admission to which is to be $3. The conference has set Feb. 21 as the date of the affair and has made the wearing of full dress optional.

After several months of investigation, during which letters were sent to practically every college and university in the country, the special prom committee of the student conference, consisting of Clark Getts, chairman; C. H. Powell, F. D. Bickel, A. E. Onsrud and J. W. Young, decided against the old $5 prom. According to the report of the committee the average cost of each man under the old system, $35, is beyond the reach of the majority of students at the state university. It was shown that Columbia, Princeton and Yale are the only institutions supporting a prom which entails an expense of more than $35 per man. At Columbia the average expense is $40, at Princeton $75, while at Yale the students attending the prom are accustomed to spend anything from $150 to $200. At Harvard and Dartmouth the expense has been kept under the average cost at Wisconsin.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 17.—

Yale coaches face the possibility of having to send the Blue against Lehigh tomorrow with a team made up mostly of substitutes. Fifteen members of the squad are now on the hospital list. Menley who was placed at center when Ketcham went on guard will be out for two weeks owing to a cut on his head received yesterday. Thompson who took Cornish's place at quarter when the latter was injured in the Lafayette game sprained his ankle running back a punt. Talbot, the veteran tackle, was also injured, but not seriously.

MANHATTAN, Kan., Oct. 17.—If

Nebraska does not play Ross, negro guard, against Kansas university, the Kansas Aggies will protest last Saturday's game with the Cornhuskers according to announcement of Coach Lyman, who declares that he only permitted Ross to play against the Aggies with the understanding that he would play in all the Missouri valley conference games. Manager of Athletics Hamilton of K. U. says there is a "gentleman's agreement" that negroes are ineligible and that Ross will not play against the Jayhawkers.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 17.—

Light practice ruled for the Tigers today in preparation for the game with Syracuse tomorrow. This game will serve as the mid-season test for Princeton and much is expected of the regulars who will be sent out in the line-up. Captain Hobe Baker satisfied the coaches by his drop kicking yesterday by putting three out of eight attempts over the bar from the fifty yard line. One free kick from placement he made four out of five from the middle of the field.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Coach Bill

Juneau of the Wisconsin eleven, enroute today to Lafayette, Ind., for the Purdue game tomorrow, the most important battle staged thus far in the western conference fight, expressed confidence that the Badgers would win, but said he would be satisfied with a one touchdown victory.

REURNS FOR COAT
WANTED MAN TAKEN

MARINETTE, Wis., Oct. 17.—After Sheriff Curran had shattered his hip and set a bullet in his leg in an exciting chase, Stanley Brownlee returned to a lumber camp to get his coat and was captured by an officer in waiting.

Brownlee was wanted for an attempt to murder a fellow woodsman weeks ago. The sheriff located him at a lumber camp north of Escanaba, aside the ridgepole of the camp, working, when he was commanded to come down and surrender. Instead, he rolled over on the other side of the roof, dropped off the camp and took to the woods with the sheriff after him.

VETERANS PLEDGE TO FIGHT MEXICO

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 17.—Eleven old comrades gathered around the banquet board at Hotel Blatz Wednesday night, eleven pairs of eyes beamed fire again at the recital of war tales, and stoutly the survivors present of the old Milwaukee Light guard pledged themselves to offer their services if war with Mexico should develop.

The occasion was the fourth annual reunion of the Light guard, organized in 1855. The only surviving charter member present was United States Court Commissioner Francis Bloodgood. He was lieutenant in the original Life guards, organized to protect Catholics during the riots of 1855.

LAWRENCE DUKE
HELD FOR DEATH

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 17.—Lawrence Duke, a son of Brodie Duke, tobacco manufacturer, will be held on a charge of manslaughter, it was announced by Prosecuting Attorney Murphy after an investigation Thursday of the killing of Henry N. Farr and the injuring of Alfred C. Hoaglund and Thomas G. Simmons Wednesday night by an automobile driven by Duke.

Murphy declared that the breaking of the steering gear, which Duke says was responsible for the crash, did not occur until Duke's machine struck a telegraph pole after smashing into the Hoaglund car.

WOMAN STRUCK BY FLYING CORN CRIB

PLAINFIELD, Wis., Oct. 17.—Further reports of the tornado which recently swept over this section indicate that south of here near Hancock the storm was more furious. Mrs.

Dana Hamilton, residing near Hancock, was struck by a corn crib. One of her hands was filled with small fine splinters of wood and physicians think amputation may be necessary.
